New Secretary In The President's Office

Virginia (Scott) Estes, A.B. '37, known to her Wesleyan friends as "Scottie" took up her new duties as secretary to Dr. N. C. McPherson on May 5, succeeding Miss Frances Strohecker who resigned to accept a position with the railroad.

Scottie has worked for the past two years with the Dessau Realty Company in Macon, and for four years before that as pastor's assistant and director of religious education at Vineville Methodist Church. On December 25, 1942 she married J. R. Estes, Jr., of Macon.

During three weeks in April and early May Mrs. George E. Clary, former administrative assistant at Mulberry Street and now wife of the Rev. G. E. Clary of the Wesleyan Board of Trustees, supplied in the president's office.

WESLEYAN SUMMER SCHOOL

Wesleyan offers regular Liberal Arts and Fine Arts Courses in a Summer Session of twelve weeks, beginning June 17th on the Rivoli campus.

Newest Alumnae Group

During the year the youngest alumnae of Atlanta has organized themselves into "Group VI," and have been most active and enthusiastic under the leadership of Jeanette (Harris) Morgan, chairman who writes:

"At one of our meetings Mildred (Gower) Sims, second vice-president of the Atlanta Alumnae Association, talked to us. At another Kathleen Mackay, nationally known medical artist, gave a wonderful illustrated talk. Last month Martha Aiken presented a musical program at her home."

Jeanette (Harris) Morgan, Edna (Todd) Kelly, and Jan Stantion (who has since joined the WAVES) sent the first reports of the organization and have promised us a picture of the group.

THE WESLEYAN ALUMNAE

The President Reports

The Living Endowment for Wesleyan College is growing; a few more than two thousand dollars since the February issue of the Wesleyan Alumnae. This is an excellent beginning and while this average gift of ten dollars may not be maintained the number of givers should be multiplied ten fold or more before the next issue of the Wesleyan Alumnae.

The classes of 1886 and 1914 lead all the others in the number of contributors. Following close behind the two leaders are the members of the classes of 1903, 1909 and 1916. One alumna has given $150.00; three have given one hundred dollars each. Two of these are making these annual scholarships and will name them for some alumna or faculty member who has proven to be a benefactor of Wesleyan College by her loyal support through the years. Other alumnae will want to establish annual scholarships of this type.

The next issue of the Wesleyan Alumnae will contain the names of each alumna who has contributed to the Alumna Loyalty Scholarship Fund this year, listed according to classes, but without the amount of the individual contribution being shown. The total amount contributed by each class will be given. The time is short but the Alumnae secretaries and your president are confident that we will have passed the $6000 goal by the time for going to press with the next issue of the Wesleyan Alumnae. I hope no alumna of Wesleyan will be left out! If you cannot contribute the average of ten dollars for the first two hundred contributors, surely there is not a Wesleyan "girl" who can not send at least one dollar. Remember $6000 contributed by alumnae this year is the equivalent to an endowment of $200,000.00.

I am not asking you to contribute to the Alumnae Loyalty Scholarship Fund in order that your class may be ahead of another class, or that I may be able to report that this year the Alumnae gave $6000 to their Alma Mater. I support the appeal of your Alumnae officers because I know the need and I know what your scholarship will do for worthy girls who ought to have their education at Wesleyan College.

If I had the space I could tell you about each of the score of girls who want to come to Wesleyan next year, and can come only if they can get scholarship aid from fifty to a hundred and fifty dollars for the first year. For example, here is a lovely girl of Spanish background from Florida. She is willing to work in the dining room and earn two hundred and thirty dollars of her board and tuition in that way. She can borrow a hundred dollars from the Comer Loan Fund, but she will need at least one hundred and fifty dollars from the Alumnae Loyalty Scholarship Fund if she is to come to Wesleyan. Once she is here other opportunities for financial aid will appear for next year.

Here is another girl whose sister will be a junior at Wesleyan next year. The family cannot afford to have both girls in school at the same time unless at least one hundred dollars from the Alumnae Loyalty Scholarship Fund is available for the second daughter.

It may be that you would like to adopt one of these girls for yours for next year, and provide the full scholarship of fifty to one hundred and fifty dollars. It may be that you can give only one dollar toward the Alumnae Loyalty Scholarship Fund this year. You know your situation. No one will urge you unduly, but I am sure you will want to join me helping Wesleyan to fulfil the central purpose of bringing education to worthy girls regardless of their financial condition.

The Alumnae office is reporting to me daily. Let your contribution be in an early report, bringing your class nearer the Victory.

President.

P. S. We have more dormitory reservations for next year on each campus now than we have had on the corresponding date since building the country campus.

The Burden Room

The "Grand Parlor" at Rivoli

When the college moved to the new plant at Rivoli, the new parlor used for official functions was called the "grand parlor" after the formal parlor at the old college whose heavy sliding doors in days gone by were opened only for state occasions. On Benefactors' Day last year, the Rivoli parlor acquired a new name, "The Burden Room," and a tablet to that effect was placed upon its walls. It represents the gift in the recent campaign of the Burden and Stewart families; Eugene and Jane Burden; Alice (Burden) Domingos and Roy Domingos and their four children, Roy, Ann Maria, Alice, and Richard; and Octavia (Burden) Stewart and Thomas J. Stewart.

Recently Tom and Octavia Stewart have redecorated "The Burden Room," and with the trained help of Mary Evans (Rankin) Ferguson, interior decorator for Burden, Smith & Co., have worked out a charming room, one that "makes you feel brighter and happier as you come into it."

The room's stately dimensions, its classic atmosphere, its large palladian window on the east side, its vaulted ceiling and delicate trim lent itself to the Stewarts' favorite type of decoration, the 18th century classical. They selected the color scheme of green, soft rose beige, and grey from the subdued colors of the central oriental rug. They tinted the walls a delicate Adam green with trim of French grey, and used draperies of a richer tone of green damask, drawn back with heavy tasseled cords, and glass curtains of bobbinet which permit the sunshine to pour into the room and reveal the ivy and dogwood outside.

Wesleyan was fortunate in acquiring some years ago through a gift from Mrs. J. W. Shinholser and her mother, Mrs. Clare Walker, her 18th century French home with its appropriate furnishings which had been selected by Neal Reed, architect, decorator, and connoisseur. From these furnishings the Stewarts had the privilege of selecting chairs, tables, and consoles that would fit into the period, and these they restored. This furniture is of delicate design, its straight lines giving the effect of daintiness and grace and elegance. The chairs have the characteristic tapered, fluted, or straight legs with caned backs and seats, and with trimmings of flowers and festoons of ribbon.

The Stewarts added contemporary English pieces, two Sheraton sofas covered in rose beige damask, for the central bi-symmetrical arrangement, completing it with sofa tables of the same period and occasional chairs, among them a charming bergere painted antique grey and upholstered in off-white and green malatu. A pair of tables ornamented with Chinese vases converted into lamps flank the high-breasted mantel with its verte marble facing, and near each of them is a straight backed arm chair upholstered in striped raw silk. Six cane-seated chairs have cushions of green damask.

Several consoles and chairs covered with soft-hued silk or brocade are painted green picked out with gold to harmonize with the painted console in the Porter room adjoining, just as the Chinese motif of that room is repeated in the slate colored Chinese figures decorating the peach silk on the large fold-screen used in one corner of this parlor, and in the Chinese vases used throughout.

In an opposite corner is a large winged chair covered with flowered chintz of French design in festoons of soft rose and blue, and drawn to its side is an 18th century English drop-leaf table.

Five handsome gift pictures were already on the walls: "The Madonna of the Chair" given by the late Admiral William S. Benson in honor of his mother, Wesleyan's first graduate; Murillo's Madonna and Child given in honor of Dorothy (Blunt) Lamar by her husband; and three originals from the Kress Collection.

The green bronze and gold tablet placed by the Campaign Committee reads as follows:

The Burden Room
dedicated to Richard Ferdillius Burden
and Minnie Bass Burden whose memory will be a perpetual benediction

Another marker honoring Mr. Stewart who has served as a trustee for 10 years, and placed by the trustees of Wesleyan in appreciation of his untiring effort through the years of struggle has this inscription:

Erected As a Tribute to
Thomas Jefferson Stewart
Builder, Lover of Church,
Champion of His Beloved Southland
Trusted Friend of Wesleyan,
Steadfast and True

Dormitory Day and Scholarship Awards

On the eleventh annual "Dormitory Day," April 17, Wesleyan students entertained the largest number of high school guests ever to assemble on the Wesleyan campus at one time. One girl came from as far away as Terre Haute, Indiana, and there were many from distant points in Florida and other surrounding states. The weather was perfect; guests and hostesses thoroughly enjoyed the well-planned program which included two new features: a skit, "A Day at Wesleyan," by the sophomores, and a play, "Quiet Wedding," by the speech department. The customary tour of both campuses, picnic, informal sports, and horse show were held, Blanche Coleman of Dublin carrying off the trophy in the horse show.

Scholarship Winners

Prospective students of the college of liberal arts took a competitive examination at the college immediately after lunch, and four prizes, scholarships worth $500, $300, $250, and $200 were awarded as follows:

Frist Prize—Anne Carlton, Oxford, Ga.
Second Prize—Margaret Devine, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Third Prize—Joan Miller, Orlando, Fla.
Fourth Prize—Jane Anne Mallet, Jackson, Ga. (Daughter of Mary Lane Mallet, A. B. 1917.)

At the same time, those girls interested in attending Wesleyan Conservatory and School of Fine Arts took part in tests and radio auditions on that campus. Prizes of $300 scholarships were awarded for first place to each of the following:

Art—Martha Godwin, Clearwater, Fla.
Speech—Elizabeth Colson, Leesburg, Fla.
Voice—Miriam Kuhn, Jacksonville, Fla.
Piano—Willene McGee, Morgan, Ga.

To the Alumnae

Eight lucky girls won the scholarships to Wesleyan this year, but—

Many more tried in the contests, and some of these were only slightly lower in score than those who won. We should like to be able to reward these girls for their excellent work also. We are eager to have them as students at Wesleyan.

Will some Wesleyan Club give a scholarship of $100 to some girl in the upper ten per cent of contestants?

Will some individual alumna give a scholarship of $100 or of $50 for one of these fine students?

And will every alumna who cannot give a full scholarship help as much as possible with a contribution to our general Alumnae Scholarship Fund in order that we may make it possible for the well-prepared student who needs some financial aid to come to Wesleyan?

CHARLES MILLS WRITES NOVEL

Charles Mills of Chapel Hill, N. C., son of the late Rosalind (Blakely) Mills, grandson of the late Mary Elizabeth (Reid) Mills of the class of 1867, is the author of a novel, "The Choice," released from the press of Macmillan Company in April. On April 15 he was honor guest at a luncheon given by the Macon Woman's Club, and at that time presented to Wesleyan a copy of his book inscribed:

"For the Wesleyan Library, in loving memory of my dear grandmother, Mary Reid Mills, a Wesleyan Alumna."

The February issue of The Wesleyan Alumna carried a write-up about Mary (Reid) Mills, who was at that time living and in her ninety-fourth year. She made her home with her grandson, Charles Mills, and retained until the last deep interest in her Alma Mater. She died in April and was buried in Griffin, Ga., her old home. Representatives from Wesleyan attended the funeral services.

HANDBOOK FOR CLUBWOMEN

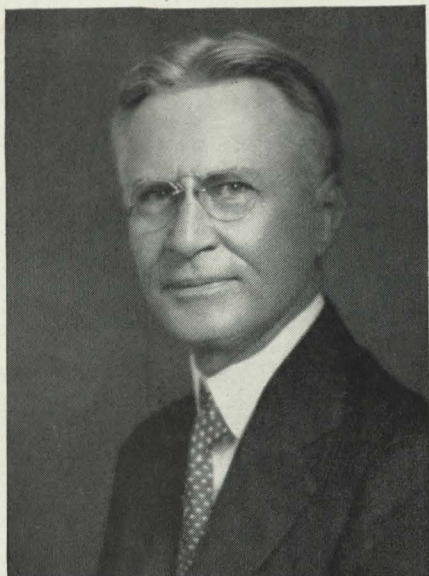

Irene (Brinson) Munro, A.B. '19 and her husband, Winthrop Munro, are co-authors of a book recently released from the Jacobs Press, Clinton, S. C. (393 pages, $2.50), called "Handbook for Clubwomen."

The book gives most helpful material on organization, promotion, publicity, parliamentary procedure, techniques, and programs for various types of clubs. Reviews say of it: "It belongs in the files of every constructive woman's organization."

Irene holds the M.A. degree from Columbia University, has taught at Lander College, Furman University, Georgia State Women's College and is now associate professor of history at Huntington College in Montgomery. Mr. Munro is in the College Division of D. Appleton-Century Co. of New York. He is a graduate of Brown University and did postgraduate work at the University of Virginia. His father was a professor of history at Princeton, and he has a brother now on the Princeton faculty.

The Munros have one little son, Winthrop, Jr.

Professor McKellar Will Return To Postorate

PROF. I. E. McKELLAR

Professor Idus E. McKellar, who has had charge of the department of Latin and Greek at Wesleyan since 1915, is leaving the college in June to re-enter the Methodist ministry as pastor of the Tennessee Methodist Church.

Dr. N. C. McPherson, president of Wesleyan, expressed regret over the loss of Professor McKellar whom he praised as having rendered fine service to the college and to the whole community of Macon. He will not be replaced at Wesleyan. Instead, the Latin and Greek classes will be taught by Miss Annabel Horn and Miss Christine Broome.

Mr. McKellar himself had high praise for the college he is leaving after a quarter of a century. "Perhaps no college for women has a brighter future than Wesleyan at the present moment," he said. "I am leaving Wesleyan and Macon with a deep sense of love and gratitude for the friendship, the cultural and social advantages which I have found here."

The ministry is no new field to him, however, as he was a pastor in the South Georgia Conference for five and a half years before coming to Wesleyan, and he looks forward with pleasure to returning to a full time pastorate.

Mr. McKellar received his A.B. and M.A. degrees at Emory University, his B.D. degree at Vanderbilt, and has studied also at the University of Chicago.

The McKellar family has been through the years associated closely with Wesleyan. The two daughters are both honor graduates, Suelle (McKellar) Swartz, A.B. '33, and Addie Rie McKellar, A.B. '39. Mrs. McKellar was Anna Belle McCrory of the class of '10. Mrs. McKellar's mother was Susie Adele (Berry) McCrory, '85, in whose honor the family dedicated a room at Wesleyan on Benefactors' Day in 1942. Her sister, Mildred (McCrory) Mitchell, '24, was at one time registrar and teacher of English at the Conservatory; her aunt, Addie (Smith) Munro, was a graduate in 1890.

Mr. McKellar's sister, Ella Clare McKellar, A.B. '07, is one of Wesleyan's Ph.D. degree graduates. She holds the M.A. from the University of Georgia, the B.D. from Duke, the Ph.D. in philosophy and Th.D. in theology from Boston, the first woman ever granted the latter degree. She is now head of the department of philosophy and religion at Central College, Fayette, Miss.

Mr. McKellar's brother, Col. Rex McKellar, placed at Wesleyan in 1941 his valuable collection of petrified woods.

The McKellars will keep their home in Macon, and expect some day to return to the city to live. They will be greatly missed during their absence by many friends, among these the Solomon Bible Class of men at Mulberry Street Methodist Church of which Mr. McKellar has been teacher for ten years.

The Rev. Silas Johnson Awarded Honorary Doctorate

The Rev. Silas Johnson, pastor of Mulberry Street Methodist Church and formerly executive vice-president of Wesleyan, received the degree Doctor of Divinity from Florida Southern College at Lakeland during the institution's annual Founder's Week convocation in March.

Dr. Johnson gained recognition in educational circles through his excellent work at Wesleyan. As evidence that the "prophet was not without honor in his own country" either, the Wesleyan students this year dedicated their annual, The Vetteropt, to Dr. Johnson. This is the highest tribute the student body can pay.

As a member of the Wesleyan Board of Trustees, Dr. Johnson is still actively concerned in the welfare of the college.

Alumna Author of Volume of Verse

Bessie (Houser) Nunn, A.B., 1903, of Perry, Ga., has a volume of verse, "Beauty, Faith, and Love" (60 pages, $1.00) recently published. The poems are like the author herself, joyous and sincere, full of courage, faith in God, and sympathy for her fellow beings.

In 1903 Bessie (Houser) Nunn received both the A.B. and B.M. degrees, the former with honor, the latter with the medal in piano. She has held responsible positions in her church, her community and the Alumnae Association of her college. She was Alumnae Trustee from 1927 to 1930.

Typical of her poems is this one, called:

A Bush Burns

A winter garden drowsing peacefully
Is suddenly aflame with crimson light;
A bush is blazing in this wilderness,
A flowering quince has burst to bloom
o'ernight;
A thousand blossoms blushing into life,
And I stand hushed before this holy sight.

A miracle—ah yes, I lift my face,
Knowing that truly God is in this place.

Alpha Delta Pi Scholarship

Applications for the Alpha Delta Pi Scholarship to Wesleyan should be sent to Mrs. J. C. Anderson, Stanislaus Circle, Macon, Ga., before July 15.

The scholarship of $250, awarded each year by the Grand Council of Alpha Delta Pi, is given to some girl who is "daughter, granddaughter, great-granddaughter, or some other relation of a member of the society." Awards must be confirmed by the Grand Council.

Three Full Scholarships Given by Alumnae

Three $100 scholarships, given through the Loyalty Fund by three alumnae, will carry a special name, either of the donor or of someone she wishes to honor. Two of these are given for the first time this year; one has been an annual gift for the past six years. Alumnae of clubs giving a full scholarship of $50 to $100 may have the privilege of naming it, and the name of the donor and of the person for whom the scholarship is named will appear on the permanent records of the college.

Sallie B. Comer Lathrop Scholarship

Sallie B. (Comer) Lathrop, A.B. 1891, of Birmingham, Ala., sent a $100 scholarship, which has been named for her. She is the daughter of the well-known governor of Alabama, and is the author of two delightful books about the Comer family which are recent additions to the Wesleyan library.

Maria Weaver Burks Scholarship

Annie (Turner) Hightower of Thomas-ton, class of 1909, gave a $100 scholarship this year in honor of her cousin, the late Maria Weaver Burks, for many years a beloved teacher and "lady principal" at Wesleyan.

Annie writes that she plans to give other scholarships in future years in honor of other Wesleyan personalities who have meant much to her.

Pauline Logan Findlay Scholarship

Margaret McEvoy, A.B. 1880, made her sixth $100 scholarship gift this year in memory of her friend, Pauline (Logan) Findlay, A.B. 1885. The first Wesleyan girl to have this scholarship graduated with honor in 1940; the second will receive her degree this commencement; the third, already named as recipient, will be a junior next year.

Early Catalogs, Addresses Given to Wesleyan

Valuable additions to the Wesleyan collection of material on the early history of the college came to Wesleyan recently as the gift of Lieut. Comdr. Felix Hargrett, USNR, Norfolk, Va.

Lieut. Comdr. Hargrett has for years made a hobby of collecting rare books and manuscripts, and his own library contains many items dear to the hearts of those who know unusual books. Always he has kept Wesleyan in mind, and from time to time has sent to the historical collection something of special interest to the college.

His present gift contains the following items:

A personal letter, in the prim and careful handwriting of the day, from a Wesleyan student to her parents in 1852. It comments on certain of her schoolmates, on college happenings of the day, on the president.

Wesleyan catalogs for 1847, 1848, and 1849, which help to complete the file of catalogs of the college.

Address delivered at commencement on July 13, 1843, by the Rev. A. Means.

Address delivered at commencement on July 15, 1847 by the Hon. Robert M. Charlton.

Substance of the commencement sermon by the Rev. Lovic Pierce in 1848.

Address delivered at commencement, "Man His Brother's Keeper," by the Rev. Samuel K. Talmage.

Commencement programs for the following dates: July 10, 1850; July 11, 1851; July 14, 1852.

Nominee for Alumnae Trustee

As nominee for Alumnae Trustee to succeed Mary (Park) Polhill whose three-year term of office expires this year, the Executive Committee of the Alumnae Association offers the name of Sue (Tanner) McKenzie, A.B. and B.M., 1918, of Atlanta.

Sue is this year completing a most successful administration as president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association. Her years in this office included some of the most momentous in Wesleyan's history and called for strenuous and sustained effort: she was elected at the time of the one hundredth anniversary of the first graduation; she served through the wind-up of the campaign, and the inspiring Dedication Day honoring those whose gifts cleared the college of debt; she led the alumnae in a campaign for Relief to China, and all alumnae know of her tireless efforts on behalf of suffering China and of the presentation of a portrait of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek last May 12 in recognition of Wesleyan's contribution.

Judging by these accomplishments alone one might well conclude that Sue (Tanner) McKenzie would serve the college well and efficiently as a member of the Board of Trustees. She is a past president of the Atlanta Music Club; was Alumnae Chairman of the Wesleyan Campaign in Atlanta; has served the Atlanta Music Club as corresponding secretary, third vice-president and chairman of music in religious education; has been on the Board of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs; was a member of the Carrollton Music Club, second oldest in the state; is now chairman of the Loan Fund of the Atlanta Music Club; is on the membership committee of the High Museum of Art; is on the fine arts committee of the Young Matrons Circle of Tallulah Falls School; is a member of A. A. U. W.; is a member of St. Mark's Church.

Sue is the oldest of four Tanner sisters, all of them graduates of Wesleyan. She received both the A.B. and B.M. degrees in 1918, received also a certificate in voice and one in public school music, studying piano under Mrs. Shinholser and under Prof. Mearz. She was president of the Glee Club.

Almost continuously from the time Sue entered the freshman class in 1914 there was a "Tanner girl" at Wesleyan, one year two were in college together. Lydia (now Mrs. W. J. Weaver of Macon) graduated in 1922; Mary (Now A. G. Patisillo of Live Oak, Fla.) in 1925; and Katherine (now Mrs. Nelson Gilreath of Carrollton) in 1931. The Tanner Room, one of the parlors at Rivoli, honoring their parents, signifies the family interest.

Sue is married to Harold C. McKenzie, and they have two children, Harold C. Jr., 11 years old; and Susan Ann, 10, who journeyed to Rivoli last year to participate in the alumnae program by unveiling the portrait of China's first lady.

Washington, D. C. Club Gift

From the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Washington, D. C. came a delightful surprise in the form of a check for $200.

Officers of the club are as follows: president, Agnes Leverette, 1902; vice-president, Ida (Wilbourne) Ray, 1886; treasurer, Faye (Killingsworth) Conservatory, 1933; secretary, Frances (Rice) Warlick.

Conservatory Maid Dies

Martha Mathews, faithful and efficient maid in the employ of Wesleyan Conservatory for some years, died in a Macon hospital on May 5 following a stroke of paralysis.

Not only all the students and faculty of the Conservatory, and its alumnae for the past several years, but all of the hundreds who came and went as friends and guests will miss her. She was "front-door and telephone maid," and she was unfailingly cordial and obliging. She gave an air of old-fashioned Southern hospitality to the institution. She was a real personality, and Wesleyan has lost a dear friend and one who always put the interest of the school above any personal consideration.

Ross-Walker Memorial Award

The memory of Annie (Rose) Ross and Annie (Nutting) Walker, two friends of the class of 1868, is to be perpetuated throughout Wesleyan's history by an English award presented each year to a present day student for outstanding work in spoken or written English, according to the plan of Hermonie (Ross) Walker who recently presented a thousand dollar government bond to Wesleyan to establish this memorial. The principal will be retained as endowment, and the interest will be used for the annual award.

The Rose-Walker Award, honoring Mrs. Walker's mother and her husband's mother, two alumnae who were college friends in the years just following the War of the Sixties, recalls the history of Macon and some of its most interesting pioneer citizens.

Hermione Ross' mother was Annie Rose, the youngest child of Simri Rose, that unforgettable pioneer of Macon who laid out the beautiful wide streets for which Macon is famous, planned Rose Hill cemetery, planted hundreds of trees and shrubs, started the first newspaper, battled against every evil that threatened the city. She came to Wesleyan in the year 1860, entering the preparatory department, and attended through 1868, from her 11th through her 18th years. In 1870 she married Edgar A. Ross at "The Oaks" near Baltimore, where she was living with her sister, Mrs. Edward Dennis. Edgar Ross was the son of William and Mary Ross, pioneer founders of Mulberry Street Church in Macon. He himself was a brilliant conversationalist and from him his daughter got her love of the spoken and written word.

They lived on College Street for a time, and moved later to the old Smiri Rose place, where they had built a new home. Annie became the mother of nine children, Helen, Hermione, William A. III, Edgar A., Jr., Annie Rose, Viola Felton, Malcolm Rose, George Carhart, and Leila Marian. After her death Helen and Hermione, young girls 14 and 16 years at the time, took care of their younger brothers and sisters and made a home for their father.

HERMIONE (ROSS) WALKER
At the Age of Eighteen

Annie Nutting was a daughter of Charles A. Nutting and Emily Compton Nutting of Macon. She was born at the home of her grandparents, the Comptons, in Monticello, and came to Wesleyan part of the time that Annie Rose was there. She married Benjamin Pressley Walker in 1868, and her children were Cora Compton, Benjamin Pressley, (who married Hermione Ross) and Charles Nutting.

Hermione (Ross) Walker and Cora Walker were devoted to each other, and in the death of the latter this year Hermione feels that she has lost a real sister. Both have always felt a keen interest in Wesleyan, as their mothers did; Cora's gift to the Greater Wesleyan campaign in 1924 was made in honor of her mother.

son will be perpetuated at Wesleyan in the scholarship fund.

To all who know Mary E. (Matthews) Rhodes personally, or through her letters which show her strong character and seriousness of purpose, it will not be surprising that she has decided to use this money to help young students. The training of young people has seemed to her the highest calling and greatest responsibility of her life, and her own fine children and grandchildren have proved that her principles and methods were sound.

Her son, Dr. Robert Lewis Rhodes, is a prominent physician and surgeon of Augusta, Ga. He graduated from Emory in 1906 and from Johns Hopkins in 1910. His son, Robert, Jr., also a graduate of Emory, is now in a government laboratory. Her daughters, Elizabeth and Lillah, attended Wesleyan in 1912-14. The former married J. R. Parham of Jacksonville, Fla., and has four sons; the oldest, Robert, is in the army and will go overseas soon; the second, Harrold, recently left college and is to be called into service. Lillah married Frank Hardeman, a nephew Col. Isaac Hardeman, former Wesleyan trustee. They live in Louisville where Mr. Hardeman practices law; they have two sons. Rhodes Hardeman is a member of the senior class at Emory, and will probably go into the service at the end of this quarter. Frank H., Jr., graduated from Emory in 1941 and is in medical college in Augusta.

In a letter to Mary (Matthews) Rhodes, Dr. McPherson, president of Wesleyan, said:

"I accept your gift in the name of Wesleyan College, the principal to be added to the endowment funds and the interest to be used to aid worthy students. Our attorney will draw up a trust agreement setting forth your gift and directing it to scholarship use.

"There is no more satisfactory investment that one can make than to invest in the education of a woman to prepare her for the kind of leadership that is the central purpose of Wesleyan."

Wimberly-Matthews-Rhodes Scholarship

Wesleyan received recently a gift of $1,800 from Mary (Matthews) Rhodes, A. B. 1883, as a scholarship fund in memory of her parents and her son. The interest on the investment of this money will provide a scholarship of approximately $100 each year for some student at Wesleyan.

Mary Matthews came to Wesleyan from Jefferson County, Georgia, the daughter of Dr. Lewis D. and Elizabeth Wimberly Matthews. Two years after her graduation she married Robert A. Rhodes, and became the mother of four children. Her second son, William, died in 1918 at the age of 20 of a heart ailment. He was a junior in college at the time. The memory of her parents and of this

Eugene Stetson Written Up In Magazine

An article, "Eugene Stetson Always Wanted to Be a Banker," which appeared in a recent issue of the magazine Finance gives interesting biographical facts about the president of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, who is the husband of Iola (Wise) Stetson of the class of 1914, and brother of Edith (Stetson) Coleman, '97.

W. Stiles and Eula May Booth Fund

Some years ago a young couple living in Ware County, Georgia, felt that Christ's words, "Feed My lambs," were spoken directly to them, and they interpreted the command to mean: "Serve the young people around you and help them to realize their ideals." So William Stiles Booth and his wife, Eula May Booth, set up what they called a Circulating Educational Fund to lend to boys and girls who wanted to go to college and did not have sufficient funds.

Through the years many boys and girls of the neighborhood borrowed money from "The Lord's Fund." The Booths were never blessed with children of their own, but took all children to their hearts, and dedicated their lives to young people.

Since Mr. Booth's death his widow has made plans for a permanent memorial. "I wanted to leave something," she says, "that will bless the world on and on through the lives of those who will come after us." Having watched the progress of Wesleyan through many years, Mrs. Booth decided to give to Wesleyan a loan scholarship fund to be used for juniors and seniors who wish to go into religious work.

As a nucleus for this fund she has sent an initial gift of $500, which she plans to add to during her life-time, and in her will.

"In making this investment in girls preparing for Christian work I feel I am answering the call, 'Feed My lambs!' Wesleyan is very close to my heart, and I count it a privilege to have the memorial fund in this great institution."

Class Notes

IN MEMORIAM

Mary (Reid) Mills, 1867
Ida (Blackmon) Couper, 1870
Alice (Hutchings) Johnston, 1877
May Bonner, 1878
Forrest (Fielder) Pitts, 1879
Laura (Brown) Miller, 1886
Lizzie (Butts) Chambers, 1892
Claudia Little, 1892
Martha Bell Waite, 1897
Callie Hale, 1916

1877

Word of the death of Alice (Hutchings) Johnston on August 9, 1942, came to Wesleyan through her son, R. H. Johnston of Orlando, Fla.

1881

Sympathy is extended to Claude (Freeman) Ross in the death of her brother, Edgar S. Freeman, of Raleigh, N. C., in March.

1882

Sympathy is extended to Gussie (Jones) Winn in the death of her brother, Harry Lee Jones of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in March.

1884

Lilla (Everett) Flournoy and her sister, Mary (Everett) Brown, '91, make their home together in Ft. Valley.

Lula (Murphy) Mathews has two sons, one with the F. B. I. in N. Y., one living with her in Ft. Valley.

1886

Anne (Allen) Johnston finds life busy and happy with her children and grandchildren, and her fruit grove in Franklin, N. C. Her older sister, Lizzie, had the misfortune to break her hip last fall, and is still not able to walk. She makes her home with a son, who is president of a military school at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. "We are the only two left of a big family of nine," writes Anne, "and I wish so much that we could be near each other."

The class will be distressed to learn of the death of Laura (Brown) Miller in March in New York after a long illness. Her husband, a metals manufacturer, died in 1936. Surviving her are a son, Arthur Frederick, of New York, and a brother, Robert A. Brown of Elizabeth, N. J.

Jimmie (Finch) Boone writes, "I remember the president of Wesleyan, N. C. McPherson, Jr., as a boy. I knew his mother very well when I lived in Atlanta, and his father and my husband were from the same county."

"Do you know I have six great grandchildren, one child and two granddaughters? I am spending most of my time with Mr. Boone's daughter. We are very congenial, and her children are all grown. She has a beautiful home and an orange grove, an ideal place to live. I go to visit the others."

Ada (Murphey) Pound writes of her family in response to Emma Smith's request: "You knew, of course, of the death of my son, Murphey, last July. He left a lovely family. Murphey, Jr. is a talented boy, 18 this July, and is studying at the University in Athens under Mr. Dodd, the art teacher. He wants to do portrait painting. Jere III, eleven, is so like his father, and Eva, ten, bids fair to inherit her mother's good looks.

"My son, Merritt, now a captain at Maxwell Field, has two children, a daughter, fifteen, and a son, nine.

"My other children were born after I left Macon, Aldine and Lucy in Milledgeville and Stokeley in Athens. Aldine is in Columbus, carrying on the business in which he, Murphey, and Stokeley were partners. Stokeley went into the army air corps last March and has been overseas since the last of May. Lucy is Mrs. T. K. Huggins and has two fine boys, eleven and two, Tryon, Jr. and Jere Pound. I think you know I make my home with her. I feel I am very blessed in my family. Aldine and Murphey married sisters, both of them fine women and so lovely to me. Aldine's children are Aldine, Jr., nine, and Ida, not quite two years old."

Mert (Murphree) Haralson, much improved in health though still frail, makes her home in Florence with her devoted son and his new wife. She writes that her years at Wesleyan were among the happiest of her life and she looks forward to the time when she can come to a class reunion.

News of Kate Neal comes to Wesleyan through her classmates in Atlanta. She is still confined to her home, but keeps up her interest in the class and sends them her love. She wrote recently to Lynn Branham: "Today our beloved friend, Mamie (Holtzclaw) Robeson passed to the Great Beyond. She was a devout Christian and a wonderfully fine woman. I know she is happy in her Heavenly Father's home. But I feel sadly bereft of her presence here. Through the years she has been such a faithful friend to me."

A visit from Emma Smith was a bright spot in the day of the Alumnae Office staff recently. She came out to bring letters from her classmates, had lunch at the Wesleyan Pharmacy, and enjoyed sitting in the sunshine on the campus before going home. Emma spent part of her time during the spring holidays of the Macon schools in writing to her Wesleyan classmates to remind them of the Loyalty Fund.

The class of '87 will be distressed to learn of the death of Blanche (Sessoms)

Cooper on June 5, 1942. News comes from her daughter, Louise (Cooper) McKinney, A.B. '20, of Blackshear, Ga.

1889

Ida (Phillips) Harris recently enjoyed a visit from her only daughter, Margaret (Harris) Freeman of California at her Peachtree apartment home in Atlanta. Ida has two sons who are lieutenants in the navy, and two sons in business: Howard, who lives in Atlanta, and Frank Glenn, who is co-owner of a chain of Drive-In Movies in the southern states.

1892

The class of '92 will be grieved to learn of the death of Claudia Little in March after a long illness. She had been a teacher in the Waycross public schools for more than 30 years, and was greatly beloved, an active member of the First Methodist Church, interested in civic and cultural affairs, and always loyal to Wesleyan. She is survived by three sisters, one of whom is a Wesleyan alumna, Lois (Little) Fleming, one brother. Two nieces who are Wesleyan alumnae live in Macon, Alleen (Poer) Hinton and Willie Mae Little.

Sympathy is extended to Nellie Edwards of Macon in the death of her mother in March in her ninety-first year.

Lula (McPherson) Steed is chairman of the Taylor County, Georgia USO, and treasurer of the Library Board. She has two sons, John S. Reid, highway engineer, and C. E. Reid, civil and construction engineer.

1895

Sympathy is extended to Nora (Wood) Ware in the death of her husband, for many years a beloved educator of Pineview, Ga.

Mary Elizabeth (Wooten) Miller is an invalid, confined to her home in Buena Vista. Her husband is State Welfare Director.

Alma Pearl Brown is very active in the Red Cross sewing and surgical dressing rooms in Ft. Valley. She sings in the choir of the Methodist Church every Sunday.

1897

Sympathy is extended to Lena (Wood) Lengnick of Beaufort, S. C., in the death of her husband on Nov. 10, 1942, shortly before their 42nd wedding anniversary. Two sons survive, a third son having died in 1925. Lena writes, "On January 7 I was blessed with a second granddaughter which has helped to brighten my life."

1899

Harriet (Dubose) Sullivan lives with her daughter, Harriet, in Anderson, S. C. Another daughter, Jessie, is Mrs. J.

W. Beard and lives in Anderson also. A son, Vance, is a contractor there.

1900

Nell (Collins) Barden's daughter, Susan Tracy, was married on January 24 in St. Michael's Church, Charleston, to Elias des Brosses Hunter of the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Adele (Fincher) Shepard of Ft. Valley had the misfortune to break her hip several months ago, and is confined to a rolling chair. Her daughter, Annie Fred, lives with her, and has a position with the State Welfare Department.

Lucia (Johnson) Edmondson and her two daughters have homes within a stone's throw of one another in Anniston, Ala., and together enjoy entertaining the soldiers who now throng the city, and doing Travellers' Aid work. Her daughter, Lucia, Jr. (called "Cia") has one son, 15, and Sallie has two boys, 5 and 3.

Sadie (Peavy) Warren's daughter, Myra, recently married James Platt, Ensign, of Rochmart, Ga. Sadie lives in Byron, Georgia.

Ouida (Beauchamp) Winn has three sons and a daughter. Besides those mentioned under "In the Service of Our Country" she has a son who is a photographer in Atlanta. Her granddaughter, Karen, is 18, and her grandson, Tommie, 13.

Guard her, O God; no love of mine
Can shelter her from ill.

Encircle with Thy Grace divine

And guide her by Thy will.

Send sweetest dreams and quiet rest

To calm her troubled mind

That she may lean upon Thy breast

And peace and comfort find.

Send me Thy strength to evil fight,

Subdue in me all wrong;

That in the battle for the right

Ours be the victor's song.

Temptations crowd my path by day,

I would it were not so;

But in the straight and narrow path

May I forever go.

My love is powerless and weak,

I pray Thy voice Divine

Will to her heart a message speak

Of stronger love than mine.

Protect her! Guard her every hour!

I leave her in Thy care;

Thine is the will, Thine is the power,

Mine—this humble prayer.
